The news of the pounding away at the debris of Fort Sumter, is not very exhilarating or inspiriting; neither is General Glimore's wrongful and indefensible treatment of colored soldiers, calculated to inment of colored soldiers, calculated to in-orease respect for him as an officer and have for so many years labored, this is joy a man, or to inspire confidence in his ultimate success. It is the true heart, and the strong arm wielding the sword of justice, in manly recognition of the rights of all co-operators, whether white or black, that inspires respect and confidence, and leads on to beneficially accomplished vic-

The Post remarks:

It is now just six months since General Hunter, commanding the United States forces in South Carolina, was relieved and General Gillmore appointed in his place. Our readers will remember that the pub-He was instructed to entertain great expostations from General Gillmore's plans and his energy in executing them. He was to put us in possession of Charleston in a very few days; and so certain were his plans of russes, that an excellent and deserving officer was displaced in order to give a brilliant military genius an oppor-tunity of distinguishing bimself. Month after month has rolled away, and Charles-seems little chance of our proceeding any further. We might, it is true, destroy a part of Charleston with our shells, but the ticket. capture of the city is apparently as far off in its possession, and military men, who have carefully considered its means of defense, see no prospect that it will be taken by any of the methods which are now employed. The public are begining to be as tired of looking towards Charleston in ex-pectation of what is called stirring news, as they were of looking with the same hope to the Army of the Potomac while under the command of General McClellan,

But if General Gillmore has failed to capture Charleston after six months of cent promises of success, he has distinguished himself in another manner. He has contrived to make himself exceedingly anpopular with the officers of the colomic troops, who share the dangers and more than share the burdens of the war. They were appointed with the understanding, on the part of the people certainly, and, we believe, on the part of the Government, that they should make good trained soldiscipling and capacity. Un arriving to taxe o'large of their men, these officers are told chat the black soldiers are only to do to be performed by the white soldiers. The colored men are therefore kept constantly at work in the trenches, and ne opportunity is allowed them for perfecting themselves in military exercises and manonvres. They are employed in digging their exercises are with the spade shovel: they are treated as menials rather

This is not the purpose for which we enlist colored meu. We do it to enlarge our sems, to increase the number of our soldiers, to present a more formidable front to the enemy, to space somewhat "of the bloodshed to which the white race are expossed, and to elevate the character of the black race by admitting them to important duties and responsibilities. This is the deslared policy of the Government, and if General Gillmore sets himself in opposi-tion to it he should be admonished of his fault by methods which the Government has not been slow to use, in other instances, when it has found commanding officers da-parting from the line of duty.

At this rate the enlistment of colored men will add nothing to aur military strength. At this rate the white officers whom we send to command them should never be called captains, colonels, &c, but oversours, tankmasters, drivers. Such, in fact, the practices we are censuring would make them; and we wonder not that their pride is wounded by abuses of this sort. The men whom they command are not troops, but laborers.

It may happen that we shall be hard presend by the enemy in that quarter, and that the help of the colored troops will become necessary. It will then be found that they are undrilled and undisciplined—that we have a nominal force on foot, to which we pay regular wages, and over which we appoint experienced officers, and which, although we hear that those of whom it is spended on in an exergency, for the sim-le reason that no pains have been taken to make soldiers of them has been allowed
